Worldwide Spider Register

The worldwide Spider Register has set itself the goal of documenting all known or still existing classic Fiat 124 Spiders. It shows the worldwide distribution with the collected country-specific information and proves with more than 90 nations that the Fiat 124 Spider is a true world car.

Since its launch in 1997 - with the vehicles of the actual and former club members - there have already been more than 16,600 cars documented, with the thesis that at least 10% of the built vehicles (approx. 198,000 Spiders) still exist.

With the vehicle-related information and the published pictures, you can click through the individual types, search by country or color or with the help of the filter functions specifically by vehicles, years of construction, etc. With the free text search, the description can be searched specifically for keywords or the special series. The aim is also to publish a representative picture of the vehicle.

Over the decades, vehicle sales, relocations, conversions and restorations are documented, so that an individual description of the vehicle's history can be collected.
